

JUDGE BARS DELAY IN TRIAL OF SHAW

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13 (UPI) — District Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. refused today to delay or move the scheduled Jan. 21 trial of Clay L. Shaw on charges of conspiring to assassinate President Kennedy.

Judge Haggerty denied defense motions to quash District Attorney John Garrison's charges against Shaw and for a change of venue to move the trial outside New Orleans.

Judge Haggerty said that he would release grand rules tomorrow for new rules covering the trial. He had already rejected the main defense motions on a motion. He turned them down yesterday.

Mr. Shaw's attorney, E. Dean D'Amico, argues for dismissal of the charges against Mr. Shaw, again against Louisiana's criminal conspiracy statute as unconstitutional.

The United States District Court in New Orleans rejected the same contention in a suit Mr. Shaw filed to block Mr. Garrison from prosecuting him.

The United States Supreme Court heard the suit on appeal in December, agreed with the lower court but to intervene by a state prosecution and gave Mr. Garrison a green light to try Mr. Shaw, 77-year-old former chairman of the International Trade Mart.
